

Small Business Innovation Research Workshop starts September 12

September 1, 2012

Each year, the federal government makes thousands of awards to small businesses to advance their research and development for eventual commercialization. To help businesses prepare their grant proposals, there will be two-day workshops in Albuquerque and Santa Fe that will cover development of Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) Phases 1 and 2 proposals and commercialization plans. Registration is $35 for one day or $60 for both days.
